Our office now features state of the art diagnostic testing

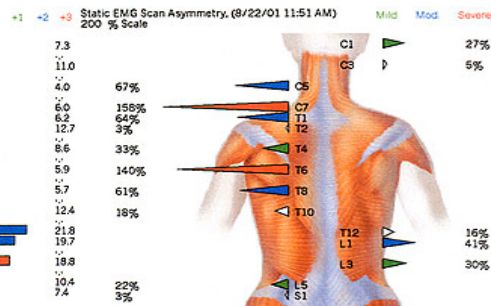

- The first one is called “Surface EMG” and measures the electrical activity of the muscles on either side of the spine
- The second is called “Thermal Scan” and measures heat on either side of the spine
- The third computer diagnostic test is called the “Foot Fas-Scan” and is used to determine if a foot imbalance may play a role in your spinal condition

These tests are then used to help make a more accurate diagnosis
